Frende. 1593.

A new Almanacke
and Prognostication,
seruing for the yeere
of our Lorde God.
M.D.XCIII.

Composed according to lawfull and law-dable art, and referred specially to the meridian and eleuation of the northeren pole of Canterburie, but may serue vniuersally, without any great error, for most partes of Englande.

By Gabriell Frende, practitioner in Astrologie and Physicke.

Galenus Lib. 3, de Diebus Criticis.

Regimen huius mundi, et viuentium, est à stellis; et maxime à Sole, et Luna,

Imprinted at London by Richarde
Watkins and Iames Robertes.

Cum Privilegio Regiæ Maiestatis.

To the friendly, and indifferent Reader, salutations.

Some frame new bookes, to please the grauer sort.
And some to pleasure youth, their penne do frame:
Some write of pleasant matters to make sport,
And some touch weightie affayres to purchase fame.
Fame seeke I noone, nor pastimes can deuise
To please, and pleasure, loe this exercise.

I meane, to please such, as peruse such workes:
And pleasure such, as thereof shall haue vse.
Wherein, I hope there no such matter lurkes,
As may i'olde, or young yeeres, seeme an abuse.
Then take it, as I geue it, with goodwill,
Respect the geuers mynde, accept his skill.

Gabriel Frende.

A Prognostication

for the yeere of our redemption by Christ Iesus
M.D.XCIII.

Wherein the disposition of the ayre the robours eche Reuolution, with sundry other agreeable notes and remen-brances meete for such a worke, are playnely and briedly set downe according to the groundes and rules of lawfull art.

By Gabriell Frende, practitioner in Physicke, and Student in Astronomy.

*The Starres are thought to rule the world's,
By auncientes learned skil:
But God doth rule, and ouerrule,
And turne them at his voyll.
Yet must we not the Starres despy,
Which heu his power so vondrously*

A generall description of the foure Quarters, or Reuolutions of this yeere, wherein is briefly expressed what euentures are for the most part like to happen vnder eache of them.

1. Of the Winter quarter. ☉ in ♊. 22. 30.

Winter, the first part of this common yeere, according to our accustomed Englyshe reckoning, began Anno. 1592. the. xii. day of December, being Tuesday: and shall continue in this present yeere. 1593. untill the. xi. day of March next to followynge.

The state and condition of the ayre this Quarter, is lyke (according to Astrologitcall and other artificiall circumstances) for the most part to proue kinde, and seasonable for the tyme, namely colde and moyst, which are the proper qualities naturally incident to Winter season.

The frostes this Winter shall for the most part be blacke, and foggy, of no long continuance together, but of such we are lyke to haue great store. The moisture that falleth shall most commonly be rayne, and flecte, then flakes of snow, whereof we are lyke to haue but small store this Winter. Neither shall the ayre be inclined to such boysterous wyndes, and thunderyng blastes, as it hath been in some Winters immediately preceeding: those which come, shall most what blow South, and South west.

The sicknesses of this Quarter, are most lyke to be singyng and wyndyng in the head, ratones and colicues in the stomacke, stuffyng and stoppyng in the Luyges, Phryssies, Retenues, Paullies, quotidian Agues, Dropxies, Consumptions, and such lyke. As for other assayles, I omit to speake of.

A Prognostication.

2. Of the Spring time. ☉. in γ. δ. ii.

The seconde Quarter of this common yeere, called the Spring, which euermore taketh place at the Sunnes entraunce into Aries, begeth this yeere the. xi. day of March being Sunday, betwene. lii. and. liii. a clocke in the morning, and holdeth on vntill the. xii. day of June next ensuing.

The entraunce of this quarter, I meane March, and the beginning of Aprill, wylbe by my collections, vnseasonably inclyned to colde winterlyke and ouermoyst weather, not without some hayle, snow, flete, and such stormy blastes, as wyl I feare me turne vs to much hinderance in our Corne and Cattle, vnlesse our good God of his accustomed mercies towardes his welbeloued countrey Englande, turne the same from vs: which we are humbly to craue at his heauenly handes with vnfaigned prayers.

The residue, or other partes of this Revolution, are by iudicialles Astrologically, lyke to proue more seasonable and kynde, sauyng that now and then sundry variable blastes, and loude whistlyng wyndes shall diuersly alter, and interchangeably affect the ayre, with new and vnlyke dispositions, throughout the whole course thereof in a manner.

The most ordinary and common infirmities raignyng this quarter, wylbe wandryng and vncertaine Agues, Scabbes, Itche, Dyphtheries, Frennies, swellinges, aches in the Joyntes, paynes in the Eyes, reumes, coughes, beside a new pestilent kinde of Ague, which wyl, I doubt, begin to be ouer basie in many places, towardes the later ende of this Spring tyme.

Touching other matters, Butter and Cheese, wyl (I suppose) be somewhat higher, and heuier of price at the beginning of this Quarter, then they are vsually wont: and so I feare me wyl Flesh and Corne, and all maner of Victualles, for the most part. But after myd May, I hope we shall enjoy a more plentifull and easie condition of the premisses. May tyme is lyke to be fayre, and reasonable plentifull: Pastours shall not thriue well in many places.

ces this Spring. But finally, the want of any necessary shalbe tollerable, yf we be not intollerably wantyng to our selues. I meane, yf we lyue in good order, every man in his calling.

3. Of the Sommer quarter. O, in S. N. m.

The thyrde part of this common yeere, called the Sommer quarter, beginneth at the tyme of the Sunnes passage into Cancer, which shalbe vpon the. xli. day of Iune being Tues day, about. xli. a clocke at nyght: and shall from thence endure vntyll the. xlii. day of September next folowynge.

Tauching the generall disposition and constitution of the ayre this Sommer, I perceiue by the rules and maxims of Astrologie, that the same is for the most part vnylike to be vnseasonably distemperd with any great dryght, or long exceeding heate: but that the ayre most what wylbe temperate, and very coole, partly thorow the breathinges of whyssking wyndes, and partly by meanes of raynyshewers, and stormy moisture, whereof we are lyke to haue great store this quarter: and yet in such sort, I hope, that they shall not be greatly offensive or hurtfull to the good estate and prosperous increase of the frutes of the earth. Thunders, and loude crackynge clappes we shall haue often: but as for day lychtynnges, and flashyng elementes, I finde small lykelyhood of many suche vnder this Revolution.

The infirmities of the tyme, are hot Agues, as Tertians, Caulsons, and such lyke. Itrem Frenses, Sweates, Headache, Ophthalmies, Squinances, hot Apostumes, yellow Jaundies, Vomiting, fluxes of blood, aches in the backe and loynes, the Plague, and such lyke, proceeding for the greatest part of hot blood and cholericke humors.

Concerning other accidentes, there shoulde by my collections, be many reportes of Warre and bloodshed, and much troubled behauiour amongst the wilked in many places. Sheepe are not lyke to thyr well, whereupon may arise a penyry of Butcher, and so great plenty of Bees: for such wyllbe also dearely valued this Quarter, in respect of other more plentifull Honymers. Come and Wine are lyke to be reasonable plentifull: and lykewyse I thinke they shalbe somewhat heauie of price. The residue I leave to the iudgements of others, seme in this facultie.

A Prognostication.

4. Of Autumne, or Haruest quarter, otherwise termed the Fall of the Lease.

O. in m. m. f.

Autumne, or the Haruest revolution, being the fourth and last Quarter of this common yeere, by our vsuall Englyshe account, maketh his entrance at the inoment of the Sunnes ingresse into Libra, which wyllbe this yeere upon the. xiii. day of September being Thursday, a lytle before hygh noone: from which instant, it shall continue vntyll the. xii. day of December, being Wednesday next immediately insuing.

The beginning of this quarter wyllbe disposed to heate, and Summerlyke weather, namely tyll towards Michaelmas: afterwards it shall proue more coole and moyst, but wyll be very variable and vncertayne, in such sort, that we shall haue heate and cold, moysture and drynes all in a day, and that often tymes so, so diuersely and vncertainly is the ayre lyke to be affected. But November wyll bying in more certayne weather, for it is lyke to be much inclined to snow, foggy mystes, blacke frostes, fletes, stormes of dayle, and such lyke winterlyke, and humall effeates. But as for those thundering wyndes, and frosty troublesome fowrell blastes, I suppose we shall not haue so many of them now, as are vsually wont to be during this season of the yeere: so caline and quiet wyll the ayre be for the most part.

For sicknesses, and bodily griefes, this part of the yeere exceedeth all the rest, for what diseases almost may there be named, which are not

not now flying and verking mens bodies: howbeit the most vniall and proper infirmities of this Quarter, are according to the doctrine of Hippocrates. quartane Agues, Swelling of the Spleene, Tympanies, Consumptions, the falling sicknesse, madnesse, fey-uer of wynde, Anginaes, and such lyke.

As for other affayres, and euents, this Revolution seemeth to sumpe with the other preceding: wherefore I finde nothing here worth the noting, which is not already touched in the former quarters, saving this, that we are now lyke to heare of more Shep-watches and Pyrates, then before.

A prognosticall Iudgement vpon the Eclipse of the Sunne before mentioned in the beginning of my Almanacke, to happen this yeere.

MEsahalah an ancient Astrologer amongst the Arabians, sayth: That there neuer hapneth any Eclipse or darkning of the Sunnes beames, but that there ensue some great, and fearifull accidents in the worlde after the same. And also other wyters in this Art are of opinion, that an Eclipse of the Sunne is much more notable, and of farre greater effect, then any Eclipse of the Moone, howsoeuer they are notwithstanding of great consequence oftentimes, and alwayes thought very worthy the noting.
Touching the present obscuration, so much as is falleth out in the fyfth decane of the signe Gemini, it seemeth according to the opinion and doctrine of Proclus Lycius, a famous wyter in this kinde, much discension, strife, sedition, and sundry hurtharlies amongst many in diuers partes of Chistianidome. Iam, much wyth, hatred, enuy, and malice: also contempt of lawes, and inlect of Chistian pietie and brotherly charitie one towarde another. Which generall iudgement of his seemeth now to be more spectally confirmed by the place or house of the Heauens it selfe, C. lvi. where

A Prognostication.

wherein the present Eclipse befallerh, namely the. ix. house. &c.
And albeit in respect of the small quantitie thereof, this Eclipse can presignifie no great matters, according to the iudgements of some Astrologers: yet the infortunate opposition of Saturne and Iupiter in the figure at that tyme, Saturne being then also lynked to Venus, and Mars being withall sounde unluckely disposed in the. v. house, cannot, by other as sounde iudicallles, but in case the former effectes mentioned by Proclus, and Ipire by somme other as heauy accidentes, vnles it shal please God of his singuler goodnes to frustrate the same, which he can, and wyll effectually performe, yf we call vpon him faythfully.

The conclusion to the Reader.

LO gentle Reader, thus I haue descride
the state of this yeere present, nynty three:
And haue according to my skyl, applyde
my pen, to write nothing but trueth to thee.
Howbeit, yf ought perchaunce failes out amisse,
The wysest are deceyued: remember this.

A wyse man by foresight preuentes much yll,
For Prudence greater is then sickell Fate:
The Starres do but inclyne: and greatest skyl
Is daunted in the waueryng aires estate.
If nothing then be of necessity,
In this kinde, how may we write certaynly?

All knowledge of future euentcs contingent is:
God altereth all, euen as it lykcs him best.
When we feare least, he soone puttes all amis:
And when we are vexed most, he oft sendes rest.
Seeing then he is onely true, and none but hee,
To him alone, all power ascribed be. Amen.
